Tinley Garden Club Is All Activity Now

By
Mrs. John E. Swisher
Earth lay beneath grim winter's frown
A cold, white thing.
God smiled, flung flowers down,
Lo, it was spring.
A social event of more than usual interest was enjoyed by members of the Tinley Park Garden Club, Thursday afternoon, May 9th, at the home of their new president, Mrs. R. Hug.

Mrs. Hug proved herself a very charming and efficient hostess and her guests will long remember this delightful afternoon. Delicious refreshments were served, and Mrs. Hug addressed the club as follows:
"Garden Club members and my officers, it is with pleasure that I now begin to serve you as your new president."

It is a great honor you have bestowed upon me and I shall do all in my power to serve you for the year to come.

We have had many a delightful meeting in the past and let us continue so for the future.

At this time I also have the pleasure to welcome our two new members, Mrs. Goessel and Mrs. Rauhoff, and I hope they will enjoy to be with us.

This is a little social meeting and at 4:30 a meeting of the executive committee shall be called and I will close with this beautiful little tho't: In the kiss of the sun there is pardon. In the song of the bird there is mirth.

We are nearer God's heart in a Garden

Than anywhere else on earth.

Mrs. Swisher in response to the above added: "Mrs. Hug, as members of the Tinley Park Garden Club, we rejoice over your acceptance as our new president and leader for the coming year. We feel certain that the affairs of this growing organization are placed in very capable hands, and we wish at this time to pledge our loyalty. We also wish to be swayed by your good judgement in all matters, and to help preserve the present happy state which now prevails at our meetings."

The last meeting of the Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Nielson, Friday night, May 17th, 1929. There was a large attendance, and a wonderfully enthusiastic spirit seemed to grip each and every member as the work for the coming year was planned. Mrs. Nielson was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers that came from Mrs. C. J. Davis' garden, at Downers Grove, Ill. Many interesting features were introduced during the evening, and the hostess served delicious straw-berried short cake, home baked cookies, and coffee.

The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Moss, Friday afternoon, June 21, 1929 at two o'clock.

The Tinley Park Flower show will be held August 23-24, in the community hall. When one remembers the public attention the show claimed last year under the flawless management of Mrs. Hilding Anderson, it is bound to be a great success again this year. Mrs. Anderson thrives untiring efforts, stimulated interest in the hearts of flower lovers all over the village, and we feel sure that these people will want to exhibit again this year.

The annual flower show of the Lake Forest Garden Club will be held June 15-16 on the Rockefeller McCormick's Lake Forest estate. Mrs. R. Hug, and Mrs. E. Moss have had the pleasure of visiting this estate and urging all who can to attend this wonderful show.

Exchange day for the Garden Club will be May 31, at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Berna Kerris. Come and bring what you have, in exchange for what you have not.

Goes 70 Miles Thru Tinley and Is Arrested

Speeders find Tinley Park a rather unhealthy place to pick out for a speedway. A week ago Sunday a large touring car with a man driving and a little girl with him sped thru the village at a speed over 70 miles an hour. Officer George Smith gave chase on his motorcycle and arrested the driver, a foreigner, from Aurora, at the Y south of Tinley Park. At first it was thought he had kidnapped the child but it later proved to be his child.

He posted a $100 bond on the Chicago Motor Club and his case was set for a hearing for last Tuesday but he failed to appear, so on Tuesday of this week Officer Smith went to Chicago to find out if the bond is O. K. and if not a warrant will be issued for the arrest of the speeder.

Tinley Business Places Close Memorial Day

All business places in Tinley Park will close at 10 a. m. next Thursday, May 30th in observance of Memorial Day. The Bremen State Bank will remain closed all day.

Memorial Day

IN MEMORY OF
OUR DEPARTED COMRADES
BY EX-GOB

Let us pause today and tribute pay
To our "Buddies" who've gone
West
Overseas they went, with grim intent
Now in hallowed ground they rest.
From town and farm, at the first alarm
They responded to the call
By the thousands they came and played the game
Real "Buddies" one and all.
They fought and fell in a living Hell
Shall we forget them then?
Aye how the head to those honored dead
Who answered the call for men.

TINLEY LEGION TO OBSERVE MAY 30TH

The Tinley Park Post of the American Legion has arranged for a Memorial Day service in the Tinley Park cemetery for memorial day, next Thursday, May 30th. The services will be held in the morning at ten o'clock.

The grave of Wm. Koehler, a World War Veteran will be decorated and a marker will also be placed on it by the Legion. Everyone is invited. This is the first public memorial day service ever observed in Tinley Park.

Mokena Couple Celebrate 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hellmuth of Mokena have traveled life's pathway together for the past twenty-five years and in commemoration of the event a silver wedding celebration was observed at their home last Sunday, thirty guests being entertained.

Rev. Roesner, father of Mrs. Hellmuth and Rev. D. C. Hennig, pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran church made very pleasing addresses befitting the occasion.

The rooms of the home were prettily decorated with flowers and tiny wedding bells. Three large bouquets of roses graced the table where a sumptuous supper was served.

The celebration was made all the more happy for the honored couple when they received a surprise visit from Mrs. Hellmuth's sister, Mrs. Emil Lotz and sons Emil and Walter, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fischer all of St. Louis, Mo., who motored here for the occasion. Other out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hentsch of Minooka and Roy Ferguson and family of Joliet.

300 Attend 25th Anniversary At Tinley Park

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Albers of Bremen township have traveled life's path together for 25 years and in commemoration of the event the silver anniversary was celebrated last Sunday afternoon in the Saenger Hall in Tinley Park, over 300 guests were present.

The afternoon diversions consisted of bunco, cards, etc. A very sumptuous supper was served. Rev. Pederson former pastor of the Coopers Grove Luth. church and Rev. Mr. Meyers, the present pastor were present and spoke.

The honored couple received many gifts of silver. They have resided in this section all their lives. They have sons and one daughter. All present enjoyed a fine time.

Congressmen Give Donations To Tinley Post

The Tinley Park Post of the American Legion has been receiving quite substantial donations within the past few weeks. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Congresswoman-at-large from Illinois sent in her donation of $25.00. Grover Elmore of the real estate firm bearing his name, also donated $25. Congressman Elliott Sproul also sent a $10 donation. Mayor Wm. Funk of Tinley Park donated $5. These are only a few of the donations received to date. This will enable the boys to buy their stand of colors. Interest in the Legion is growing right along.

TINLEY ANNEXATION
HEARING JUNE 17TH
A hearing will be held on June 17th regarding the annexation of a portion of the former Fulton farm into the corporate limits of Tinley Park.

The Town Doctor

SAYS

HOW YOUR TOWN LOOKS IS IMPORTANT.

What is there that some communities have that others lack, which makes the difference between compliments and criticisms "that something" that invites you or repels and oppresses you -- that difference which so distinguishes from the ordinary? It is largely a matter of that which, for want of a better name, has been termed by the advertising profession an "atmosphere."

Lack of "atmosphere" in a town is that which is responsible for motorists going through your town without seeing it, or remembering it. How often have you heard the remark, referring to business houses, places of amusement and even homes -- "It doesn't appeal to me, there's no atmosphere?"

How your town looks IS important, for while people weigh values, they constantly compare towns. There are thousands who would go out of their way to patronize YOUR town if the surroundings were such that created "atmosphere."

"Atmosphere" attracts, induces, tempts, allures, fascinates and impresses -- it SELLS your town; while the absence of it in any community creates a pall and silence that shouts to the world, including its own inhabitants, "This place LACKS what you are looking for."

In every section of this great land of ours, cities, towns and villages have, to a greater or less degree, thought of, talked about, and in many cases, STARTED a Clean-up Campaign. To what extent it has been carried out depends upon the wide-awakefulness of the people.

There is something about the first few days of every spring that gives us mortals an urge to shed ourselves of drab surroundings -- to sort of "brighten the corner where we are", so to speak. Full of pep, enthusiasm and with fine ideas of doing big things, we materially add to the joy of the paint store man, the seed merchant and the seller of garden and yard tools, and it is fine for everybody. But our hands are soft, our backs are weak, and our will not to strong, and altogether too soon the glamour and incentive of the first days becomes the FEVER of the weeks and the job is left half done.

Verily, in a few short weeks many now tidy and much boasted of gardens will be but weed patches, unattended and forlorn. Likewise, many a Clean-up Week, widely heralded, urged and exploited by a loyal press, will pass with the May flowers unless you and your neighbors and all of their neighbors' neighbors recognize the REAL value and keep AT it until it is done -- they demand "atmosphere", and there can be none without cleanliness ALL of the time.

Tinley Players Score Big Hit In "Deacon Dubbs"

The recent presentation of "Deacon Dubbs" by the Tinley Park P. T. A. at the Tinley Park community hall on May 10 and 11 and at Orland Park, May 13th, scored a wonderful success. Large crowds attended the performances and all who saw the play were profuse in their remarks regarding the very excellent manner in which the actors carried out their parts and many declared this was one of the best productions staged in Tinley Park in a long while.

This play demonstrated that Tinley Park has very fine talent who know how to make a hit.

Much praise was also heard in favor of the excellent work of directing done by Mrs. Trudie N. Swisher.

The P. T. A. greatly appreciates the fine patronage accorded them and are well pleased with the financial return realized.

Tinley Park P. T. A. Notes

By Mrs. Hilding Anderson
Close to fifty members were present at the luncheon given on May 3rd with Mrs. Trudy Swisher retiring President, Mrs. Helen Sandidge, principal; Miss Jean Morningstar and Mrs. Smith, teachers as guests.

Mrs. Swisher was very pleasantly surprised when she was presented with a lovely bouquet by her Vice-president, secretary and treasurer.

We regret the absence of Mrs. Morgan our intermediate teacher due to illness.

The table set in the Community Hall was very pretty with vases of jonquils and decorations of yellow and green.

The planning of the delicious lunch was very efficiently taken care of by the refreshment committee while the preparing and serving was done by the various mothers and success was due to the splendid co-operation of all.

After taking several snapshots the regular meeting was held in the school building.

Mrs. De Wilde gave a very interesting talk on the organization of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and its various branches of work.

The children also made an enjoyable contribution to the program with songs, readings and exercises.

The largest number of mothers being present from Miss Morningstar's room, the banner goes to the little folks for the month of May.

The following chairmen of committees were elected for the ensuing term:

Mrs. Helen Sandidge, 2nd vice-President.

Mrs. Trudeie Swisher, Program
Mrs. Emma Klepper, Publicity.
Mrs. Ingeborg Olson, Child Welfare.

Mrs. Luella Rogers, School Beautiful.

Mrs. Frances Rowden, Membership.

Mrs. Anna Clemens, Refreshment.

Mrs. Jennie Klepper, Librarian
Mrs. Swisher and the players of "Deacon Dubbs" gave hearty co-operation to the association in stag-

Mokena To Honor Old Vets May 30

The Mokena Memorial Day committee has arranged for a very fine memorial program to be held in the auditorium of the new Mokena school on next Thursday morning commencing at 10 o'clock standard time. Special music, singing, addresses, etc., will constitute the program. The school children will decorate the soldiers graves in the St. Mary, Old Cemetery and the St. John Cemetery. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these exercises.

Orland Farm Has Mystery Fire

Fire of unknown origin threatened to destroy the farm houses on the John Cooper, Jr., farm near Orland Park Saturday night. The fire of unknown origin was first discovered in a summer kitchen adjoining the farm house occupied by Henry Munch, between the hours of 7 and 8.

Thru the efficient services of the Orland telephone operators, help was summoned from Orland and near by farms and the large force of volunteer fire fighters after a stubborn fight prevented the fire from spreading. The summer kitchen with all its contents burned. The farm house also caught fire which, however, was put out after a hard fight. All that saved the dwelling was that the roof was covered with roofing instead of shingles. Altho the fire got beneath the roofing it was soon checked.

Mokena Pupils Win Declamation

The pupils who will represent Mokena High and Grade school in the declamation to be held at Mokena Friday, May 24 were chosen Tuesday night, May 21st at the new High school auditorium at Mokena. There were nine tryouts, six from the grade school and three from the high school.

The tryout was in the form of a declamation contest in which the four teachers of the Mokena school were the judges. Three decisions were unanimous except in one case that of second place in the high school decision. In this Myrtle Roberts was the unanimous choice for first place, while Luella Storey and Linda Lehnert were tied for second.

In the grade school section Myra Kolber was first, Ruth Geuther second, and Marie Turney, third. Lucille Fisher was given honorable mention.

By the decision of the judges, Myrtle Roberts will represent the Mokena High School Friday night at Mokena with the reading "Maden na Lilies" and Myra Kolber will represent the Mokena Grade School with the reading "Bobby Shafto".

ing this play, giving hours of time to preparation. Their efforts were crowned with success as a "full house" was quoted for both evenings and a neat sum will be added to the treasury.

A special meeting will be held in the school house, Friday, May 24th at 2 p. m.

Mokena's Mayor To Fly In Ford Plane

Local Ford dealers are again demonstrating their progressive-ness by sponsoring the tour of a giant Ford Tri-Motored Allmetal Monoplane which is being made to promote interest in aviation. The tour is nationwide and is being made under the auspices of Ford dealers all over the country. "Being the Ford dealers in this locality," said Mr. Elmer L. Cooper, speaking for the Cooper & Hostert Motor Company, of Mokena, "it is our privilege to sponsor the project here, thereby making it possible for the people in this community to see and ride in this modern Airliner."

"Practically every city and town in the country is active in the development of local aviation. From a community standpoint aviation has developed to the stage now where civic interest is merited because of its importance to the city and town. We believe the slogan 'Boost your community for aviation and aviation will boost your city for you,' is a good one said Mr. Cooper."

Due to the great amount of territory which the plane must cover on its tour it is obvious that it cannot be scheduled to operate in every town that would like to have it. While it is regretted of course that the plane will not be brought here the Cooper & Hostert Motor Co., of Mokena has co-operated in having it brought into Joliet so that people in this community can go over and see and fly in this safe Ford plane. The Cooper & Hostert Motor Co., has even arranged to provide free transportation over to the flying field to any one who wants to fly. Unless the schedule is postponed because of bad weather the plane will arrive on June 5th. If bad weather should interfere the flights will be postponed until good weather again prevails.

Flight tickets are now on sale at the Ford dealers. Each flight will be of full fifteen minutes duration, according to Mr. Cooper which allows enough time for a person making his first flight to have a really enjoyable trip. It has been said that many people who took this ride for the first time expressed themselves as much preferring air travel to any other means of transportation. The plane has a seating capacity of fourteen passengers and is fitted with comfortable wicker chairs. It is attractively upholstered in green leather. No special clothing is necessary to ride comfortably in this plane as it is entirely enclosed. No unpleasant sensation is to be anticipated by the passengers as the pilot, who is an expert and was trained at the Ford Airport in Detroit, makes it a point to demonstrate to the passengers on each flight just how smooth, comfortable and fascinating air travel can be.

Local people were enthusiastic in their praise of Cooper and Hostert Motor Co. for making it possible for the people here to fly in this Ford plane and many have already expressed their intentions of taking advantage of this wonderful opportunity. Mr. Cooper said today that several have already made arrangements to make a flight. Among these air minded citizens is Mayor Harry F. Mall of Mokena who said he felt that everyone should know what it is to fly. He has never been up in a Ford plane, he said, and he is naturally looking forward with great pleasure to making this trip.

Orland Park Has Peppy Ball Team

Orland Park has a real peppy baseball team this season. They are ready to take on good teams and they have some of the best ball players that ever slugged a ball.

One of the high lights is Kyle Anderson who played in a try out with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

This coming Sunday afternoon Orland will play the Sebeck Cardinals of Chicago at Orland. Adamson will pitch and DeButch will catch. All fans are urged to attend this game. The Orland team deserves the loyal support of all the fans. Last Sunday Orland played the Chicago Champions and defeated them with a score of 6 to 2.

New Lenox Plans Memorial Day Program

The annual Memorial Day celebration will be held at New Lenox next Thursday morning. After the usual exercises the soldiers graves in Maplewood and Marshall cemeteries will be decorated.

Tinley Defeats Mokena; 3 to 1

In a great pitchers battle held on Schmidt field Tinley Park Sunday afternoon, Tinley Park defeated Mokena 3 to 1 in their first base ball clash of the season. It was Tinley's second win in three starts.

Gaige pitching his first game for Tinley had 12 strikeouts to his credit. Schultz, who was Tinley's star hurler last season, pitched effective ball for Mokena.

Deweiler's sharp single to right field in the fifth inning scored Bruening from second base to tie the score. Angelica hit the third base in the sixth scored two runs to win the game.

A large crowd was on hand despite the chilly weather. From indications shown in the first three games, Tinley has a ball team to be proud of this season. Clarence Goessel is coach. Henry Boldt is the manager.

Scores of the first three games are as follows:

Tinley Park 6 Midlothian 5

Worth 4; Tinley Park 2.

Tinley Park 3; Mokena 1.

Score by innings of Sunday's game:

Mokena 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 - Total

FIELD MARSHAL ALLENBY'S TRIBUTE

THE PRESIDENT AND THE FIRST LADY OF THE LAND

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

IS the eternal mystery.

HIS is the eternal mystery. No one knows where he was born. It may have been among the rocky hills of New England or somewhere in sunny California. During his boyhood he may have played in the pine woods of Michigan or paddled a dug-out on some Louisiana bayou. But the name of the state which gave him birth doesn't matter, after all. For he was an American.

No one knows in what branch of the service he enlisted. He may have been a cavalryman or an engineer. Or he may have been a doughboy, slogging through the mud of France or one of those "cannoners" who have "hairy ears." And then again, he may have worn the silver wings of the aviator. But the name of his outfit doesn't matter. For he was a soldier, a fighting man.

No one knows where or how he died. It may have been in that fierce little fight at Cantigny. Or it may have been in the gloomy fastnesses of Belleau Wood or somewhere on the historic Somme that death found him in a burst of shrapnel, a spray of machine gun fire or a bayonet thrust. But that doesn't matter, either. The thing that does count is that "he died fighting," under the Stars and Stripes.

No one knows his name. It may have been just plain Smith. Then again, it may have been Murphy or MacDonald or Cjarnowski or Muller or Isaacs. And then again it's possible that somewhere on a western Indian reservation his copper-skinned mother looked proudly upon her lusty first born and said "His name shall be Big Brave." But his name and the nationality of his parents are not so important now. His fellow-Americans call him by the proudest name that any man can bear.

He is "The Unknown Soldier." Seven years ago they brought his body back across the Atlantic and placed it in a white marble tomb in a famous cemetery near the nation's capitol—a soldier home from the wars. Since that November day in 1922 men and women of every station in life have bowed their heads reverently before his last resting place. To it have come the great of other countries—the queen of a European royal house, princes, field marshals, lord admirals, statesmen. None has been too great to pay him homage.

But all of this homage is as naught compared to that which is offered up in the hearts of all Americans on May 30, 1929. For the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery, near Washington, D. C., is a national shrine to which the thoughts of all Americans turn on Memorial day each year and the ceremonies which will take place there—ceremonies in which President Hoover, commander in chief of all American soldiers will take part—will symbolize America's tribute to her soldier dead, her defenders in all of the wars which the United States has been called upon to wage.

It is doubtful if any other symbol in all American tradition has so gripped the imagination of the nation as has this white marble tomb and the body which it shelters. Perhaps it is the tantalizing mystery of his identity, the thought that

FIELD MARSHAL ALLENBY'S TRIBUTE—Viscount Allenby, hero of the British campaign in the Holy Land during the World war and now Great Britain's only living field marshal, is one of the notables from abroad who have placed a wreath on the tomb of America's Unknown Soldier.

"TAPS"—Staff Sergeant Frank Witchey, Third United States cavalry of Fort Myer, Va., and the famous bugle he has used in sounding taps at the burial of America's Unknown Soldier and at the funerals of the late President Wilson, Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles and S. M. B. Young, Major General Leonard Wood, and William Jennings Bryan. Sergeant Witchey has seen 20 years of continuous service with the Third cavalry.

heroes at Arlington National cemetery. Mrs. Coolidge is shown placing a flower on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier while President Coolidge looks on.

ENEMIES ONCE; COMRADES NOW—Although they were enemies during the World war, members of the European Automotive commission who toured the United States in 1928 are comrades in commerce. While in Washington they journeyed to Arlington National cemetery where they placed a wreath on the tomb of America's Unknown Soldier. In the photograph, left to right: Capt. A. L. Westbrook of Alexandria, Egypt; Holger Dau of Copenhagen, Denmark; J. F. Smet of Antwerp, Belgium, and recipient of five war decorations; Johannes Stahlberg of Berlin and member of the kaiser's staff; Emmanuel Ricardo of France; and Harlan Wood, departmental commander of the American Legion.

he may have been a man whom any one of us once knew. But whatever may be the reason why the symbolism of the Unknown Soldier has such a powerful hold on us, the fact remains that few Americans who visit the capital of their country fail to make a pilgrimage to this hallowed spot. There they find that Uncle Sam pays a tribute to this son of his, not alone on special occasions such as Memorial day and Armistice day, but upon every day in the year. For, standing guard over this spot, is a khaki-clad figure, a soldier in the United States army. The story of this vigil is one of the interesting parts of the romantic story of the Unknown Soldier. It was told in a recent dispatch from Washington as follows:

"The soldiers who stand guard ten hours every day at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington regard their selection as one of the most cherished military honors.

Unknown?

I have come back to my mother's land—
I was long, too long, away.
She shades her eyes with a blue-veined hand
In the sunlit upland day
And looks at my saddle, my horse, my gun—
For my haunts were not the strown.
My western mother has murmured: "Son!"
So why am I called Unknown?

I have come back to my mother's land,
Where the yellow pine glades are;
The cypress flutters, by warm breeze fanned,
And the rose scent floats aloft
There's a plash of oars on quiet streams
And a bright-hued bird has flown
Like those that colored my youthful dreams
Ere they called me the Great Unknown.

I have come back to my mother's land,
Where the sun's like distant drums,
And the fishing craft make bright the strand
And a kindly neighbor comes—
For such is the way of the village folk
When a woman is left alone.
It's of me they talk, when she doffs her cloak,
So why am I called Unknown?

For I belong to them—mothers all—
From the seas to the plains of sage,
From the hills that rock to the snowsides' fall
To the desert gray-lined with age.
And my tomb shall vibrate with messages
All couched in that mother tone
Which stirs the heart. Ah, then, who says
That I have returned Unknown?
—Arthur Chapman, in the New York Herald Tribune.

Look for Kilauea to ### Become Active Again

Tremendous avalanches in the almost empty crater of Kilauea, Hawaii's "live volcano," again have given hope that "Madame Pele" might return to her traditional abode.

Pele is the goddess of volcanic fire, according to Hawaiian mythology. The pit of Kilauea has been almost bare of flowing lava for several years, though still smoking. Yet there are fire cracks all over a vast expanse of the Hawaii National park, surrounding the crater, and ample proof that red-hot lava is just beneath the surface.

The avalanches have sheared off large sections of the crater's edge, so that land where spectators and autos could stand only recently disappeared into a yawning pit more than 1,000 feet deep.

One large party of round-the-world "trippers" arrived at the volcano just in time to witness a mighty avalanche.

Record Engraving Feat

The Lord's Prayer, 69 words, 397 letters, counting punctuation marks, was engraved in 12 lines on the head of an ordinary pin by Charles Howard Baker of Spokane, Wash. Baker is now an inmate of an institution for blind and insane. The engraving cannot be read without the aid of a powerful magnifying glass. Baker was at one time an employee of the United States government in the bureau of printing and engraving. He spent three years and eleven days completing this work. The pin at present is the property of Charles J. Seymour, a friend of Baker. Seymour carries the pin from place to place for exhibition purposes.

Valuable Salvage

The rumbler, a new device to salvage brass from worn out light bulbs, is announced by the New York Edison company. The name describes the noise made in reclaiming the brass socket shells, the only parts considered worth saving. In shape it is a cylinder, of 500-bulb capacity, with two sets of steel teeth set on bars inside. While the drum revolves, they chew to bits glass and filament, which fall out of holes in the bottom, leaving the shells shiny and clean. The company reclaims about 300,000 shells yearly. Until the rumbler was devised the work was done by hand.

Ten Million Trees

More than 10,000,000 trees have been planted in Louisiana during the 1928-29 planting season, according to a statement issued by the Louisiana division of forestry. The total of hand-planted forests and wood lots in the state now stands at 28,000 acres, which represents the planting of about 25,000,000 trees.

Most of the planting has been done by lumber and paper companies on their cutover lands. The combined output of the nurseries operated by these companies is about 2,500,000 trees.—American Forests Magazine.

Music-Weary

"Do you enjoy music when you are at luncheon?"
"No," answered Mr. Chuggins. "I listen for hours to the rhythm of the motor. When I sit down in the dining room I'd like just to stop and look."

First of Growing Tribe

Two of the earliest millionaires in the United States were John Jacob Astor, 1762-1848, and Stephen Girard, who settled in Philadelphia in 1772. Girard was worth $10,000,000 at the time of his death in 1832.

A WOMAN'S HEAD

is level and her judgment good when she puts her faith in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is no beauty without good health. Nobody expects to become a really beautiful from the use of complexion beautifiers. Bright eyes, clear skin, and rosy cheeks, follow the use of the "Prescription." All dealers.

Every woman requires a tonic and nerve at some period of her life. Whether suffering from nervousness, dizziness, faintness or general debility, the "Prescription" benefits.

Mrs. Della Sherer, 304 E. Sample St., South Bend, Ind., said: "For about four years I could not sleep well, was all dragged out, weak, pale and thin. Finally I began taking Dr. Pierce's Prescription and it built me up so one would think I never had a sick day."

It sometimes happens that genius is mistaken for common sense.

White City Opens 25th Season

Myriads of people attended the opening of White City for its Silver Jubilee Season Wednesday, May 15, and preparations for the reception of these record crowds were not made in vain. The opening night when the silk band blocking the turnstiles was cut by President-Director Frank B. Bellis of the Englewood Business Men's Association was the signal for a rush unprecedented in the twenty five previous years the great South Side Chicago Amusement Park has been opened.

Executive members of the Englewood Business Men's Association, including Alderman Walter W. Morris, Secretary-Director of the group, John E. Foster, Director, and a committee of directors and members presided with President Herbert A. Byfield of White City who assisted in the starting ceremonies. Following the rituals which were held around seven in the evening, the throng surged through the entire forty acre tract of White City and looked at each new sight, tried each new ride and saw each new show, then went home tired, and pleased with the new vista of White City of twenty five years old.

The big free Circus was announced for Saturday, May 25th, with a gay galaxy of clowns, dare-devils, thrilling spellbinders and visions of big top attractions which will be offered the patrons of this outdoor playground. The circus acts will be new each Saturday following on the opening and will be offered once in the afternoon and twice in the evenings on each day that weather permits.

MOKENA

A farewell party was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hentsch Monday night in honor of Mrs. Emil Lotz, sons Emil and Walter and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fischer of St. Louis who have been visiting with relatives here and who left for St. Louis Tuesday morning.

Wilbur Teske and his orchestra furnished music for dancing and a general delightful time was enjoyed until mid-night. The birthday anniversary of Fred Wannemacher was also celebrated at the same time. A fine time is reported by all.

MOKENA M. E. CHURCH NOTES
Harold Sandall, Pastor
Church school 10:30 a. m.
Evening Worship 7:00 p. m.

The Church School officers and teachers will have a short business meeting following the regular meeting Sunday morning. Everything is progressing splendidly. The teachers as well as the pupils are showing real spirit of loyalty by being in their places on time every Sunday morning. The pastor believes he has never found a more wholesome school spirit.

Everyone was glad to see Rev. and Mrs. Beatty again. They spent the week end at St. Charles, Missouri where they will be located on completion of their school work in June.

As Memorial Day falls on the week following, the pastor in his sermon next Sunday evening will speak on an appropriate theme. You are invited to attend.

ST. JOHN'S EVAN. CHURCH

Rev. W. J. Cramer, Pastor
Our Sunday school starts promptly at 9 a. m. We have classes for all ages and everyone is cordially welcome to our Sunday school. There is still room for men and women in our adult classes. Spend an hour of Bible study with us. You will enjoy it.

The service starts at 10 a. m. Your pastor will preach an inspirational sermon on real happiness. Come and find out what real happiness is. Real happiness lies not in the performance of our daily duties if we drag ourselves to it with reluctant consent. Thus life becomes cramped, pinched and restrained. But if a man wants to be truly happy then it must flower out in the senses of privilege. Your pastor will tell you all about it Sunday morning and don't fail to hear this sermon.

The church board will meet Monday evening in the church parlors for the regular monthly business meeting.

Memorial Day will be observed in the spacious auditorium of the new school. The services commence at 10 a. m.

Memorial Day will also be College Day at our College at Elmhurst. Senator Burkhardt of Iowa will be the speaker in the afternoon. The entertainment will be provided by the Elmhurst Glee Club and the Elmhurst Band. Refreshments will be served to all visitors.

Mrs. John Semmler who has been seriously ill the past three weeks, is slightly improved. Miss Stella Schultz is caring for her day and night.

Miss Elsie Kreis will leave for St. Louis the first of June to serve as maid of honor at the wedding of her friend, Miss Naomi Falkenrath.

Cranberry Cultivation

Out of a total of 29,964 acres of cranberries in the United States, 14,000 are in Massachusetts and 13,000 in New Jersey. Cranberries are little grown outside of the United States. About 100 acres are being cultivated in Nova Scotia and they have been tried with little success in Norway, the Netherlands and Denmark.

Much Silk in Cocoon

A silkworm's cocoon contains from 500 to 1,200 yards of silk.

Plans for the creation of a permanent joint congressional committee to deal with general problems affecting the Mississippi river and its tributaries are under way, same having been formulated within the past week at a meeting of Senators from nine Mississippi Valley states.

The move, initiated by Senator Glenn, of Illinois, was regarded in Illinois waterway circles as affording an excellent opportunity for future consideration of problems in connection with the completion of the state's link in the lakes-to-the-gulf-waterway.

Senator Deneen is joined with his colleague in the plea for the establishment of a permanent committee, with which move the Mississippi Valley Senators eagerly agree. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, was Chairman of the meeting, and the following announcement was made by him:

"In all probability, as suggested by Senator Glenn, 'the conference will later be made permanent for dealing with general problems affecting the Mississippi river and its tributaries.' Formation of the Senate committee will be followed shortly by selection of members of the House to serve on the committee."

MRS. HOOVER INTERESTED IN P. T. A.

Mrs. Hoover attended the meeting of the National Parent-Teachers Association on May 8th and later attended a luncheon which the Association gave. She takes a great interest in these matters, and has been a member of this association for a great many years.

RESIDENTS OF WASHINGTON, D. C. MAY BE PERMITTED TO VOTE

A strong movement is on foot in Congress to permit the residents of the District of Columbia to vote. It seems it will require a constitutional amendment authorizing the granting of the right of suffrage to those who make the capital of the nation their home.

WICKERSHAM MAKES OBSERVATION ON EFFECT OF JONES LAW.

Mr. Wickersham, on May 7th, delivered an address, "The Constitution and Prohibition Enforcement," before the students of the College of William and Mary in Virginia, and said: "The policy of the Jones Act, which seems to compel observance of the prohibition law by more rigorous penalties, probably will defeat itself through the consequences it entails. It requires prosecution by indictment and not by information, in every case. This will mean of two things: Either a very large increase in the number of Federal Judges or the continued embarrassment of civil litigants in the delays caused by the swelling tide of criminal indictments and trials under the prohibition act."

EACH ONE HAS DONE SOMETHING

Each of the nine people you see here has accomplished something that merits publication of their photographs in the press. Reading from left to right, top row, Sir Thomas Holland, noted Canadian Geologist and Rector of the Imperial College of Science of London; Mother Jones, famous fighter during the miners' strike some years ago, has just reached the ripe young age of 99 years; James Frazier, England's famous historian, is convinced he found the ruins of the ancient Tower of Babel in Babylon. Center row, left to right, Trude Brionne, Viennese dancer who claims she has traveled more than 2500 miles on her toes; India's youngest and richest potentate is George Jivraj, Maharajah of Gwalior. The pearls he wears are not imitations but the real thing. Adjudged the most popular and beautiful maid in the State of Utah, the young lady has been crowned "Catherine, Empress of Utah." Bottom row, left to right, Rita Jendrassko of Budapest, only five years old, awarded the honorary title of President of the Hungarian National Juvenile Swimming Club; Hean Mueller, German light heavyweight boxing champion, is going to meet some of our own mitt-men right here in the Land of the Free; Tiny Beta Balasy is only seven years old, but she is being hailed by Hungarians as the Juvenile Chess Champion, and who is ready to meet all challengers. Trying to get your picture in the paper is not such an easy task as one might think. The surest way to have your photograph printed in the newspapers is to commit a murder, job a bank, offer to give away a million dollars, or fly across the Atlantic. (Herbert Photos, N. Y.)

Who The Town Doctor Is

"The Town Doctor, whose editorials have been running in The News-Bulletin for several weeks, was once asked the direct question, 'Who is the Town Doctor and just what does he do?' His answer was—

"The Town Doctor is a physician, surgeon and diagnostician to Sick Cities, Tired Towns and Vanishing Villages, administering inoculations, vaccinations and injections of preventives against community diseases of thought, deed, attitude and activities; prescribing antidotes, tonics, diets and exercises that will revitalize, invigorate, wake up and put pep into any community suffering from Civic Pride Paralysis, Low Citizen Pressure, 'Contemptuous Familiarity', Civic Dizziness, 'Chronic Knockers-itis', and Myopia (short sightedness)."

Mr. A. D. Stone, The Town

Doctor, is a man who has spent his life in studying and analyzing towns, cities and communities. He has traveled over 400,000 miles of United States highways and byways, seeking causes and working out effects of every phase of community ways of doing things, during which time he has compiled what is considered to be the most complete, bona fide, usable territorial analysis system ever devised. He has served towns, communities, various associations, many of which were international in scope, both actively and in advisory capacity, to an extent that there are few, if any, men in the country better able or more qualified to write and speak on the subjects covered in Town Doctor Articles.

Mr. Stone is the head of Dyckston, Inc., Chicago, who are specialists in Community Survey Work and Business Analysis.

These editorials come to us sponsored by the Tinley Park Lions Club, furnished to them by the International Association of Lions Clubs, of which the local club is one of some 1800 Clubs."

Not All "Tuskers"

Tusks are present only in the males of the Asiatic elephants and are only about half as large as those found in African elephants. Both sexes of African elephants have tusks, which contribute to the dwindling of the species, as the females are as liable as the males to be killed for the sake of the ivory.

Slaves Were Shaved

A clean-shaven face in the East was originally a sign of servitude. Old pictures show kings and conquerors heavily bearded and with long hair, while their slaves and captives are clean-shaven and close-cropped. The Greeks and the Romans later discarded "face fungus," as it gave their enemies a hand-hold in the close fighting, which was, of course, the rule in those days.

CAMEL CIGARETTES

WHY CAMELS
ARE THE BETTER CIGARETTE

Camels contain the choicest tobaccos grown . . . expertly blended for matchless taste and fragrance.

They have a welcome mellowness and mildness that you will find in no other cigarette.

Smoke them as often as you like, Camels never tire your taste.

The quality of Camels is never permitted to vary.

Only a superior cigarette could have won and held world leadership for all these years as Camel has done.

CHORUS GIRLS' CAN EAT AGAIN

Producers of musical comedies and the great couturiers of New York and Paris have united in announcing that the boyish figure is passé. No longer forced to starve themselves to a shadow, the girls of the Varsity Drag Chorus of "Good News", the famous Broadway production, thoroughly enjoy a wholesome snack after the show is over and before changing into street clothes. Freedom to satisfy their normal craving for sweets and other foods that supply energy is a big help to them in setting up a new standard of "pep" for Broadway to catch up to. Left to right: Katherine Gladling, Lillian St. Just, Peggy Bolton, Viola Hunter and Betty Tracey.

FRANKFORT

Mrs. Henry Schroth had as her guests last Sunday, her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jensen and family of Chebanse, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephen, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Folkers and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warning attended the Will County mail carrier banquet last Friday evening in Joliet.

Levi Doty visited in Joliet Monday afternoon.

Mrs. and Mrs. Clarence Cleveland who have been spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Florida, expect to return home next week.

Evangelical Day will be held in the Schubert Grove near Chicago Heights Sunday, June 2nd. Children's Day will be observed in St. Peter's Evangelical church, Sunday evening, June 9th.

Canadian Industries

Pulp and paper represent the largest of the manufacturing industries in Canada. Flour and grist milling comes second, and the production of lumber and forest products stands third.

EDITORIAL SPOTLIGHT

INDUSTRY TAKES THE BEST—West Palm Beach (Fla.) Times

Fifty-two years ago there were two telephones in the world, each an inventor's model. Now there are 29 million, 18 of which are in the United States. The public has a fair understanding of the more concrete facts of telephone progress, of the extensions, gradual perfection of mechanics and transmission, and of the constantly improved service. It knows little about the intensive research that has been carried on, things that have taken place behind the scenes, in great and costly laboratories, that have brought a state of near-perfection in a great many lines of public service, in the printing presses no less than in the telephone.

Industry takes the best science can offer when it starts out to solve its problem step by step, and it only is through exhaustive and meticulous experimentation that a near-perfection is attained in anything. With the telephone betterment the outgrowth has been television and transatlantic telephony within the last few years. With motion pictures it has been the vitaphone and the movietone recently; and in these late days is the effort being made, and which will be accomplished, of producing the actual coloring effects of the original settings wherever they may be.

For these betterments and advancements mankind owes its debt to scientists and investigators, to industrial explorers, to some man who had a dream and a vision, an imagination, and the hardhood to stay with it and stand by it until he convinced otherwise those who saw in him only the dreamer.

When there is no vision the people perish, and it is just as true that where there is no dream the industries make no progress.

Approximately 1,300,000 copies of the winter edition of the New York City telephone directory, covering Manhattan and the Bronx, were distributed in December. The new directory contains 1,640 pages and weighs about five pounds.

The only countries outside the United States with more than a million telephones are Canada, Germany and Great Britain, and the United States has over three times as many telephones as all these countries combined.

Fruit and Produce Auctioned Over Long Distance Circuits

Novel Exchange of Advantage to Both Buyers and Producers

By means of Bell Systems' transcontinental telegraph circuits, California fruit and produce growers are ridding themselves of the disadvantages resulting from their distance from middle western and eastern markets. The organization supplying this service, beneficial both to farmers and wholesale houses, is the Agricultural Exchange of Pittsburgh, which in a few years has developed a countrywide auction of produce during the busy season, the bidders for which are located in the chief markets of the nation.

The Exchange's branch office in San Francisco each day collects detailed information concerning cars of produce being shipped east and at night distributes this catalogue over the wire to other branches in eleven cities between Minneapolis and Boston. The next morning these offices notify prospective local customers as to the nature of the shipment and the date of its departure from California. At 3 o'clock that afternoon, Eastern Standard time, the buyers meet in the Exchange's offices in the different cities, and at this time, while the produce is still en route eastward, the goods are auctioned.

"Line 1" is announced from Pittsburgh, and the buyers, who possess mimeographed sheets giving descriptions of "Line 1," make their bids. "Thirty-two," says a buyer in Chicago, and "Chicago thirty-two" is promptly relayed to the assembled jobbers by the operators in the other sales offices. A Boston house offers thirty-five dollars and this bid is similarly announced. The car is finally sold to a Cleveland jobber for forty-one dollars.

Since the cars are sold f. o. b. shipping point, and since the California producer is in immediate touch with current prices, the advantages of this system are obvious. A 5,400 mile circuit thus affords quick sale and provides the fruit grower in California with a market comprising eleven of the largest eastern cities.

TINLEY PARK

The Lions Club are working in conjunction with the recently organized American Legion Post on a very elaborate Fourth of July celebration. A big parade in one of the big features. A big dance is also scheduled.

Hilbert Meyer, who has been clerking at the Vogt Department Store, underwent an appendicitis operation in the St. Francis hospital, Blue Island the past week. He is getting along nicely.

J. C. Funk is having a big demand for kites since he put out some fancy red kites. The kite season evidently is starting early.

A force of roofers have been engaged the forepart of the week re-roofing the store roof on the Vogt Department Store.

The Tinley Post of the American Legion met Monday night in the Community Hall, a new member, Mr. Mansfield was added to the roster.

Mrs. Andres who has been here for six weeks assisting in caring for her mother, Mrs. Fastert, returned to her home in Overton, Nebraska, Tuesday. Mrs. Fastert is able to be about again.

The Tinley Park R. N. A. will give a calico and silk social in the Community Hall, Tuesday eve., May 28. Everyone is invited.

A killing frost nipped garden truck Monday night.

Mr. Schultz, manager of the Tinley Park Grocery and Market was quite ill last Saturday from the effects of having a wisdom tooth extracted. Mr. Schultz usually is in a jovial mood and he says if he looked too sober Saturday it was due to the pain he was suffering. He has recovered now and is greeting his customers with his usual smile.

The annual school commencement exercises of the Tinley Park public school will be held on the evening of June 3rd in the Saenger Hall.

Mr. Dini expects to finish hauling rubbish this week. The amount of rubbish collected this year was much more than last year.

Dr. and Mrs. Ickstadt were recently called to Prairie Du Sac, Wis., by the death of a sister-in-law. They made the trip by automobile.

The Ladies Aid of the German M. E. church served a supper in the Community Hall on Tuesday night which was very well patronized.

The Lions Club will meet next Monday night in Andres Hall.

A fire destroyed a barn, tool shed and all contents on the Arthur A. Fulton farm last week. Fire departments from Tinley Park, Midlothian and Oak Forest responded and saved the other buildings from burning.

Walter Stelter has rented his flat to a Blue Island party.

Farmers are busy planting corn, on Saturday the wind turned north east with a heavy drop in temperature and many of the farmers were obliged to wear overcoats while planting corn which was very much out of the ordinary as it has been some years since the season was so backward.

A Pentecost dance was held in the Saenger Hall, Monday night. Postmaster Andres visited in Chicago Tuesday.

The American Legion is putting on a drive to sell tickets for their big dance June 1st. They expect to buy their stand of colors soon.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Fulton wishes to express their sincere thanks to the fire departments of Tinley Park, Midlothian and Oak Forest, Illinois, also the entire community for their kind assistance during the fire which destroyed our barn, tool shed and contents.

MR. AND MRS. A. A. FULTON

Mrs. John E. Swisher spent last Thursday with her sister Mrs. Chas. Davis, of Downers Grove, Ill.

The winners of the Tinley Park Health Contest were Dorothy Andres (girls), Dick Swisher (boys). This is the second time Dick Swisher carried off the honors, as he won the contest in 1927 also.

World's Fair Notes

Tentative plans for staging, during the Chicago World's Fair, the most elaborate and comprehensive housing exhibit ever held in this country are under discussion by N. Max Dunning, Eugene Henry Klaber, Chicago architects, and Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant to Rufus C. Dawes, president of the centennial celebration.

Both Mr. Dunning, who was director of the United States Housing Corporation during the war, and Mr. Klaber, who is associated with the Rosenwald development at Forty-eighth street and Michigan avenue, have studied modern housing projects in Germany and England.

According to the plan, sufficient space will be set aside in the exposition grounds for laying out a modern village or town built to full "life-size" scale which would be known as the World's Fair Garden Village. The village would include about 20 modern homes, schools, churches, a town hall, fire and police departments, playgrounds and other amusement features, a community center and up-to-date stores. The exhibit would show what the modern home of 1933 would be like, and depict the modern home the future.

The modern homes shown would express a new type of house design, not distinctly American, but a composite derived from world experience.

Leading department stores of New York, Chicago and other large cities would each be invited to pay for the building and furnishing of one of the modern homes.

Sea Superstitions

We are indebted to the seamen of antiquity for the belief that kingfishers cast a spell upon the deep, so that calm weather prevails during the "haleyon days," about the time of the winter solstice. Old salts object to the presence of a cat on board ship, because she "carries a gale in her tail." —Exchange.

FARMERS UNION CHIEF AND PROBABLE GOVERNOR

Charles S. Barrett of Atlanta, Georgia, head of the Farmers National Union, one of the strongest organizations of the farmers of America, photographed with Colonel Arthur W. Little, New York publisher, after they had paid their respects to President Hoover at the White House. Col. Little is being prominently mentioned as a possible nominee for the office of Governor General of the Philippine Islands to succeed Henry L. Stimson, who resigned that office to join the cabinet of Pres. Hoover, having been named Secretary of State by the President. (Herbert Photos, N. Y.)

The automobile drivers' license bill, introduced by Senator James J. Barbour, Chicago, has been defeated in the house. The measure passed the senate several weeks ago without a vote to spare and received only 66 votes in the house, 11 short of a constitutional majority.

The bill appropriating $175,000 by Representative Homer J. Tice, Greenview, for the rebuilding of the Lincoln monument in accordance with plans which have been approved by Governor Emmerson, has been reported to the house for passage. It is expected that the bill will go through both branches without difficulty and that work will begin about July 1.

Whether members of the assembly are to receive $5,000 salary for each session will soon be determined by the senate; the bill has come out of the committee for passage and has passed the house.

The house committee on appropriations has reported out a bill appropriating $1,000,000 for flood control in the Illinois river valley and $60,000 for relief in other parts of the state.

Representative William E. King, Chicago, has introduced a bill appropriating $10,000 to the department of purchases and construction to make a study of lake levels and authorizing that department to co-operate with other state and with federal agencies.

The committee on appropriations has reported out the bill introduced by Representative James H. Foster, Macomb, appropriating $1,107,412 to the state department of registration and education for permanent improvements to be made at the various state normal schools.

A sum of more than one million dollars flowed into the coffers of mutual benefit associations of Illinois during 1928, George Huskinson, state superintendent of insurance, has announced.

Vegetation, which had developed beyond the seasonal normal during the month of March and early in April, lost much of its gain later in the month, according to a summary of Illinois weather conditions which has been issued by W. F. Feldwisch, meteorologist, temporarily in charge of the Illinois section.

Governor Emmerson has officially proclaimed Thursday, May 30, as Memorial day.

Illinois grown strawberries, superior in quality to the yields of former years, have begun their movements in carload lots. About 400 carloads will be marketed—one-third more than last year.

The senate has passed the bill introduced by Senator Epler C. Mills, Virginia, providing that highway commissioners may spend money for improvements in cities and villages.

The income tax bill by Senator Simon E. Lantz, Congerville, has been placed on the house calendar in spite of an unfavorable report from the house revenue committee.

Stillman J. Stanard, recently resigned director of agriculture, deposited $107,500 in the state and county fair premium fund during his last day in office. This is believed to have been the largest amount ever deposited in one day in this fund. The money came from the Fairmount Jockey club, Collinsville, and the Washington park race track, Chicago. The premium fund totals $500,000 at present.

Miss Grace Walker, reference librarian, Illinois State library, has resigned to accept a position with the Evansville (Ind.) city library.

The county highway tax rate in the future will be limited to 12½ cents on the $100 valuation, according to the provisions of the bill introduced by Representative C. L. Ewing, Douglas, which has just been signed by the governor.

Abandonment of wheat acreage is less than average and Illinois winter wheat prospects are favorable, a joint report of the Illinois and Federal departments of agriculture state.

Chicago traction bills which have been before the Illinois general assembly in one form or another for twenty years have passed the house by an unexpected majority and will now go to the senate to be heard by the committee on public utilities.

Governor Louis L. Emmerson, as commander in chief of the Illinois National Guard, has added the following men to the personnel of his staff: Howard P. Savage, Earl Thornton, William E. Buehler and Charles M. Hayes, all of Chicago. They are given the rank of colonel.

The bill introduced by Senator E. J. Abt, East St. Louis, providing for an increase in the state highway patrol from 100 to 200 members has passed the senate by a 38-6 vote. The bill has been sent to the house.

Herbert Weiss Fay, custodian of Lincoln's tomb, Springfield, is appealing for public help in providing a place for his collection of Lincolniana, which must be moved under Governor Emmerson's plan to make the tomb exclusively a memorial.

Voting to reappropriate $3,250,000 among the counties, the house has passed the bill introduced by Representative Reed F. Cutler, Lewistown, to reappropriate half the money from the 1927 gas tax which is now in the treasury. The bill now goes to the senate.

Senator W. L. Finn, Iuka, has introduced a bill providing for the elimination of "rank injustices" of the community high schools law. The measure would make it mandatory for county superintendents of schools to change boundaries of districts when petitioned by voters.

Representative John G. Jacobson, Chicago, has introduced a bill providing for the licensing of plasterers and plastering contractors by the department of registration and education.

Coal miners of southern Illinois have won a victory in the senate against the "bug light." The bill, introduced by Senator Charles H. Thompson, Harrisburg, prohibiting the use in mines of lamps which are fitted with batteries passed by the vote of 33 to 0.

If a township supports paupers and poor, it is liable for the care of a family in quarantine, but if the county supports the paupers, then it is liable, attorney General Carlstrom has ruled.

The bill introduced by Senator Earl B. Searey, Springfield, authorizing the state director of trade and commerce to remove and consolidate all insurance company receiverships in Springfield, awaits Governor Emmerson's signature.

Speaker David E. Shanahan has a gavel made from the wood of a tree that grew inside the foundation of his birthplace in Amboy, Lee county. It was presented to the speaker by Rep. George C. Dixon of Dixon on behalf of Amboy citizens.

The house has passed the bill introduced by Representative Joseph L. Rategan, Chicago, requiring motor vehicles carrying more than seven passengers to have pneumatic tires.

The bill introduced by Mrs. Mary Cowan McAdams, Quincy, providing that widows of veterans, who are more than sixty years of age, may be admitted to the Quincy home, has been passed.

Senator Martin Bailey, Danville, has introduced a bill asking reappropriation of $25,000 for a monument to Joseph G. Cannon at Danville. The previous appropriation will lapse July because no work has been done.

When Abraham Lincoln was nominated for the Presidency "he was almost unknown" and big city newspapers, even those of Chicago, were forced to depend on an editorial printed February 11, 1860, in a country newspaper in Pennsylvania, for an adequate biographical sketch, Dr. William E. Barton, Lincoln biographer, told the Illinois State Historical society at its recent meeting in Springfield.

Representative Leo Crowley, Peoria, has introduced a bill which provides that any person who furnishes a female under eighteen years of age with any literature pertaining to the purchase or trial of cigarettes shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $500 or a jail sentence not to exceed one year.

The house has passed the bill introduced by Representative Anna Wilmarth Ickes, Winnetka, to cut the attorney general's power. The measure, which has been sent to the senate, would repeal the 1927 law, which requires courts to call in the attorney general first if the state's attorney is incapacitated. If the attorney general then refuses to act, the court can appoint a special prosecutor. The Ickes measure would repeal the 1927 law and remove the requirement of calling on the attorney general first if the state's attorney cannot act.

Two bills are pending before the house committee on roads and bridges, one introduced by Representative Elbert Waller, Tamaroa, and the other by Representative Charles Johnson, Carbondale, seeking to connect Giant City state park to the hard road system.

More than eleven hundred men have been added to the state road building forces in recent weeks. Three thousand men and 275 teams are now employed on road work.

Bills by Representative Alexander Wilson, Cairo, appropriating $200,000 for an armory at Cairo, and Representative W. C. Chynoweth, Decatur, appropriating $125,000 for an armory at Decatur, has passed the senate and have been sent to the governor.

The senate has passed two bills by Senator Adelbert H. Roberts, Chicago, providing amendments to the city election law to permit the appointment of one nonresident judge and one nonresident clerk if such action will prevent fraud.

Novelty Straw and Fabric Hats; Gowns Need Not Tell Your Age

JUST as was predicted, novelty straw and fabric hats are of the greatest interest, so far as woman's millinery is concerned. The season has brought out a greater diversity of novelty than has been seen in the past several years. Numerous of these straw innovations include the characteristics of woven novelty fabrics and are handled exactly like fabrics; they are modeled to the head, their cut try vainly to nudge Father Time into the background by wearing clothes that are too youthful, or by playing the role of twenty instead of fifty. Is it not better judgment to strive toward a definite ideal of nature beauty and graciousness that makes life really sweeter as time takes its toll?

Woman's figure, and the manner in which millinery carries herself give a good clew to her age. Defects in posture edges bound in grosgrain ribbon, georgette, canton crepe and like materials.

While the large hat comes in for favor, the smaller type holds its popularity of recent seasons, as will be noted in the models shown in the picture.

At the upper left is a two-colored braid, with almost a flat top crown, narrow brim in front and brimless in the back. Its only decoration is a patent leather band with a regulation buckle at the side. The band is in two colors, to match the colors in the straw. It is particularly youthful.

The hat shown at the upper right is a combination of straw and silk, the crown made of four tones of silk in a swirling effect, the lap-over of the straw brim of the hat giving unusual snap. The under part of the brim, which is decidedly drooping, is lined with the silk of the darker tone used in the crown.

In the center is a hat of novelty straw stressing the off-the-face style, a mode which appeals especially to the should have been and perhaps were corrected in the more youthful days; when middle age arrives it is too late.

The gown shown in the picture—it is a lovely model in chiffon print, featuring a scarf-cape effect flung jauntily over the right shoulder, hanging to the bottom of the gown, attached at the neck and brought down to the popular V-neck style. The material may be of chiffon, silk print, georgette, or any of the popular materials, and it develops into a charming affair that will appeal to many women up to fifty years of age.

An extremely long blouse draped at the left side covers an underdress with sunburst plaited flounce. The sleeves are typical of the long-sleeve mode of the season, long and snugly fitting.

young misses. A grosgrain ribbon band in contrasting color adds a touch that spells chic.

At the lower left is another open-work straw, with a fabric lining of delicate shade, which also forms a trim in bonnet fashion over the face and extending low on the side of the neck. It is another model favored by the younger misses.

Polka dot taffeta, wide irregular brim, a made quill of stitched silk comprises the features of the fetching sports hat at the lower right.

Lost youth to some women is a serious matter—in fact it is more of a tragedy than it should be. Some outfit that bids fair to be among the most popular styles of the summer season.

Because of the slenderizing effect of the gown it is especially suitable for the matronly figure.

While this model may appeal to the older women, it likewise will and does have a favorable appeal to the younger people, and made up of any of the various print materials it is particularly attractive for almost any age. The model has been noted in displays by many stores that specialize in the most stylish apparel for women.

Warn Farmers on Seed for Forage

Argentine Product Is Susceptible to Disease and Winterkills Easily.

A warning to farmers against the purchase of Argentine alfalfa seed because it is not hardy, winterkills easily and is very susceptible to disease, is issued by Waldo Kidder, agronomist for the extension service of the Colorado Agricultural college.

Colorado-grown Grimm or Cossack varieties of alfalfa seed are types most highly recommended.

Distinguish Argentine Seed.

Argentine seed may be distinguished easily because 10 per cent of it is stained orange red, by order of the United States Department of Agriculture, as a warning to prospective purchasers that it is imported Argentine seed and unhardy.

Quite a supply of this Argentine seed has been received on the Colorado market, and is being offered for sale by certain seed dealers. It is being offered at lower prices than our home-grown or northern seed.

Prospective purchasers are warned that it is undesirable for planting in Colorado and the Rock Mountain region generally.

There is an unusual demand for alfalfa seed at this time, because 20 per cent of the alfalfa acreage in Colorado was lost through winter killing and disease during the winter of 1927-28. Farmers in the northern part of the United States suffered the same misfortune, with a loss of between 15 and 20 per cent. Part of this acreage was reseeded last year and much will be reseeded this spring.

Fair Supply of Seed.

Although Grimm and Cossack varieties are high and rather scarce there seems to be a fair supply of Colorado-grown and northern-grown common alfalfa seed at reasonable prices. This common seed is much preferable to the Argentine.

Keeping Flies Away by Screens on Milk House

While experience has shown that it is not practicable to screen the cow stable, this cannot be used as an excuse for not screening the milk house.

The best type of screen for the milk house windows is that which swings out, for, says the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, New Brunswick, this readily enables one to clear the room of flies during the day. The door should be double-screened if possible. Farmers who have electricity available claim that a fan blowing directly on the strainer and cooler is a most effective way of keeping flies away.

The treatment of manure heaps with commercial disinfectants will rid the barn and milk house environs of fly-breeding places. The common practice in keeping flies off the cows at milking time is to spray them with the common commercial fly preparations as soon as the cows are brought into the stables.

Modern Feeding Calling for More Mineral Matter

Poultry has a high mineral requirement. This is also true of dairy cows and hogs. Modern feeding practice is calling more and more for the addition of mineral matter to the ration. Hog feeders today are using thousands of tons of mineral mixtures annually. In the poultry feed the use of grit, oyster shell, bone meal and the mineral mixtures is rapidly expanding. The value of such material is apparent. If a farm flock of hens cannot get anything better than the mortar in the old chimney of a tumble down house, it will increase their egg production. If you could actually eliminate all of the mineral content of a dairy cow's ration, her heart would stop beating and she would die more quickly than though you took away all her drinking water and provided no more.

Agricultural Notes

It is far better to do much soil improvement before setting out the peach orchard.

Low milk yields and low profits from dairy cows are very frequently the result of poor feeding.

Not all plants need a "sweet" soil; some do better at a fairly high degree of acidity. It pays to know your plants.

Nature grows both good and poor trees, and the final crop will be composed of both kinds unless the poor ones are removed.

There is little trouble in opening the silo, but many farmers have no silos to open, and this is really their principal trouble and loss.

Buy only alfalfa seed which is known to be adapted to your locality is the warning recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

To secure the greatest returns, the woodlot must be protected from fire and grazing animals, and a sound system of improvement cutting adopted. Cutting is the only practical method for the stimulation of growth of this type of crop.

CHAPTER X—Continued

I followed the roundabout Susquehanna road and passed by the ruins of many a cabin. It was not the most direct route, but it pleased me to fool myself with the thought I would never continue as far as Alexandria. However, I did persevere, and an astounding thing happened to me and expelled my apathy and left me quivering with a new purpose. The Onondaga would have said it was my Brenda working for me. A white man would have said it was luck. It all happened at a hamlet on the Maryland line where a dozen men were listening to a rugged fellow's plea for volunteers to serve as riflemen in the expedition soon to be made against Canada. Weary of war, weary of myself, and finding solace only in my strange dreams, I would have passed by with deaf ears had not his rude eloquence compelled my attention while he cried out:

"Sick of it? Who ain't sick of it? But how will it be stopped unless your rifles help stop it? I tell you we've got 'em running now. You've had a bellyful of fighting? Who ain't? I thought I had a bellyful at Braddock's battle. I've thought I had more'n enough during the last three years. But I've been learning all these years; learning that if we want a job well done we must do it ourselves. Men, it's the long rifle, and not the Brown Bess what's going to put a stop to the Injun deviltries. And if you'll go along with me I'll lead only as long as I can keep ahead. When any other feller can lead faster, he takes my place and I take his orders."

I reined in and stared at the fellow closely. There was something reminiscent in the strong young face. He was quick to see me and my travel-stained forest garb, and he called out over the heads of his audience:

"Welcome, friend. You look like as you was used to woods fighting. I've had my share of it; from Braddock down to Forbes and much in between."

"But you're not through yet? Your long rifle still shoots?"

"It still shoots. I am not through until the job is finished."

He pointed me out as a wholesome example, and embarrassed me by extolling my high spirit. Whereas I was sick of Indians, sick of hardships, I had but one desire; to spread my blanket back of the Carlisle house and close to the sleepy lap-lap of the Potomac and rest there one night, and perchance dream of Busby and other playmates. I backed my horse away and waited until the young man had finished his talk and had secured half a dozen names or marks on his muster-roll. Then I dismounted and joined him and drew him aside, and said:

"You'll be Daniel Morgan, at one time a wagoner in Braddock's army."

"Dead center. But I don't know you from Adam, friend. You have mighty little meat on your bones."

"I threw you on to a horse at the tower ford of the Monongahela on July ninth, three years ago."

"H—H I remember. The man fighting beside the tall Injun."

"There was a young person with you—"

"A gal in breeches. Elsie Dinwold, she gave her name. She had the grit of any man I ever see."

"Had?" I repeated, a deathly faintness stealing through my gaunt frame.

"And still has, I'll guarantee. If she's kept out of danger and didn't get sculped. Lord! But she did try desperate hard to git off that horse and git back to the fighting!"

"Man, where is she? Where did you leave her? Why don't you say something when you talk?" I cried.

"And I placed my hands on his shoulders and shook him."

He grinned broadly and showed no resentment at my manners.

"Where she is I cannot say. But she went to Alexandria. I gathered from her talk—and she talked mighty little—that some one she used to know, and liked a heap, lived there once. But you'll be signing up as a rifleman for northern work?"

I mounted before bothering to answer him. Then I called back:

"That must come later. I must finish a journey first."

And though it was dark and my horse was weary I rode on.

A skeleton of a man on a worn-out horse. No leisurely riding now. I would not have eaten, nor slept, nor for my mount. I had but one desire—to strike into the old postroad and finish the distance at a smashing gallop. The poor brute was badly used up when I did leave Shooter's hill behind me I reined in.

Now that I had arrived and would soon know all, I experienced a strange timidity. Three years had passed. No soldiers now enlivened Alexandria; and I knew the drowsy calm of the town would never suit her. She had gone away long before this; or—and this was a most disturbing thought—she had found some one who appreciated her, and had married. Beyond all doubt she had come to the belief that I was dead.

Now that I had talked with young Morgan I could not forgive my stupidly folly in neglecting to seek her on the banks of the Potomac. Yet I had reasoned logically enough—she was never one to seek refuge in Alexandria. She was born of the frontier and border blood was in her veins. She would feel as much out of place in Alexandria as the fair Josephine would feel on the lonely shore of the Monongahela.

I clucked to my horse and I rode down the King's road, and the dust scuffed up by my tired mount's feet lazily drifted on to the meadow grass and settled and spoiled its sheen: just as it had when I watched the grenadiers march up the same road on Braddock's fatal business.

The town had changed none. There were the same slim and fat chimneys, the same quaint roofs of different patterns, and the double row of Lombardy poplars before the Carlisle house. There were the windows of the blue-and-white room, where Braddock had drunk his wine and rightly had berated the colonies for their lack of zeal. The new warehouse on Point Lumley, at the foot of Duke street, was complete and already showing the mellow influence of the weather. On the wharf were several guns, brought over by Braddock and left behind because of their cumbersome weight. But no gay uniforms decorated the approach to the Royal George and Gadsby's; no guards awed the natives by their precise maneuvers in the market-place.

"Oh, Mister! You've Come Back!"

I dismounted to be less conspicuous, and with my long rifle under my arm led my patient animal to the House of the Open Hand. And here I received a sharp surprise. The garden beyond the gate was trim and orderly. The fountain was cleaned out, and the yellow-topped mustard was destroyed. The roof of the grape arbor had been repaired; and the grounds reflected the tidy content my father had so dearly loved. The place was inhabited.

I turned away, feeling greatly depressed. Now I knew I had come on a fool's errand. The witch-girl—a bit of thisworld down before the wind—had drifted on. I had no heart to see the front of the house, and would have returned to the market-place to bait my mount and ride away had not a woman emerged from the door to stare at me for a second. I was for hurrying on, but she called me by name and came running after me as fast as her dronches and petticoats would permit.

"I knew you! I knew you, Webster Brond! Your tall figure would betray you anywhere!" she cried, extending both hands.

"Josephine!" I mumbled.

"Missus Hewitt, wife of Carter Hewitt," she corrected, and relinquished my hands to drop me a courtesy. "You must come in and tell me where you have been and what you have been doing. Mr. Hewitt will be back any time now. He rode to Annapolis."

So poor Busby's message would never be delivered. Relieved of that sad errand, there was no call for me to tarry. I mumbled something about being in a desperate hurry, but she seemed to be possessed even to the point of unwomanliness. For she fairly danced before me, her blue eyes sparkling with mischief; and she insisted:

"You must come in, mister. You just must."

"Why do you speak like that?" I whispered. "Why do you call me 'mister'?"

And I grasped her hands and gripped them till her grimace reminded me I was not handling a red savage.

"No; I'll tell you nothing out here in the road," she cried. "A vestryman will be rebuking us. Besides, it's not comely that you should hold my hands. Come!"

I released her, and followed her under the grinning mask and through the cool doorway. In the hall I halted and cautiously seated myself in a spindle-legged chair, and demanded:

"Now tell me."

"Oh, Webster, it would be so romantic if you weren't so stupidly matter-of-fact. Why shouldn't I call you 'mister'?"

"Josephine, the devil's in you. Have you anything to say or not?"

I rose as if to leave.

With a sigh at having her game cut short she primly began:

"I have a young ward, a refugee from the Braddock rout. She came here in a most scandalous condition—dressed as a man! She gave you name and said you would come to find her. She gave me your name, but she always speaks of you as 'mister.' How is that for mighty respect?"

"And now? Where is she?" I muttered.

"Why, now she should be in the garden, gathering posies for the table. You see Mr. Hewitt bought this place three days after Braddock and poor Busby marched away. He was a confirmed bachelor. He lived here alone until our marriage a year ago this summer. Missus Elsie from the beginning would come here to walk in the garden because it had been your home. It promised a rare scandal. Mr. Hewitt appealed to me in great alarm. I had to marry the poor man, or else banish the wild thing. Now it's perfectly proper for her to walk in the garden as much as she will. I've lost my interest in you, Webster. You know the way down the hall?"

An idiotic question. The door, opening into the garden, was the one I had passed through thousands of times in the old days.

"You've been good to her, Josephine. You must have been mighty good to her, or she would never have stayed."

"Rubbish! I couldn't have driven her away. She was always looking for 'mister' to come. She would have made a camp in the garden and lived like an Indian." Then with much sadness she added: "I hate that word—Indian. You understand, Webster—I'm sorry."

"His last words, Joe," I blundered, giving her Busby's message after all.

"Go find her," she brokenly whispered. And as I made down the hall I saw her hand traveling up the balustrade, clinging to it tightly to aid her weary feet.

But sorrow was not for me this day. I was selfishly alive with the joy of anticipation. I burst through the doorway as if pursued by Pontiac himself. Next I came to a plunging halt and found myself bowing awkwardly before a dainty creature in drouces and lace.

"I beg your pardon," I stammered. "I was looking for a young lady."

"Oh, mister! You've come back!" she sobbed. And the awful of flowers was dropped and a miracle was worked; for I found the lovely thing in my arms, her voice whimpering over and over: "Oh, mister! You've come back!"

[THE END.]

Writers Turned From Drugs to Authorship

It may seem a far cry from the drug store to literary fame, but throughout the ages there has been a puzzling relationship between the two. Many a youth who has started life in a pharmacy has found, strangely enough, that his real career lies in authorship, says a writer in the American Drug-gist Magazine. Aristotle was one of the earliest of these. The Greek philosopher, son of a physician, followed his father's footsteps as a youth in those days when doctor and drug-gist were one. Dante, immortal poet, was a member of the guild of apothecaries in his native Florence. John Keats served as a pharmacist's apprentice and later graduated from Apothecaries' hall. Henrik Ibsen found the inspiration for his "Ghosts" and "An Enemy of the People" while serving for six years in a little Norwegian drug store. And O. Henry, probably the most famous of modern drug-gist-authors, spent several of his early years in a Greensboro (N. C.) pharmacy.

Inside Interference

Much heterodyne interference complained of originates right in the receiver, either because it oscillates uncontrollably or because it is an improperly designed superheterodyne. Some receivers of this type squeal and growl as soon as there are two or more stations on the air. The squealing is due to the fact that in every superheterodyne any station comes in at two-dial settings, the so-called "one-spot" not excepted.

Easy Life Valueless

An easy life is not likely to be valuable to itself or to others.

All Growth Is Slow Growth

You cannot force the growth of human life and civilization any more than you can force these slow growing trees. That is the economy of Almighty God, that all growth is slow growth.—Gaynor.

Religion

When you see a man with a great deal of religion displayed in his shop window, you may depend upon it he keeps a very small stock inside.—Spurgeon.

GOD'S LAW IN THE HEART

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 31:1-40; John 1:17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against thee.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Knowing God.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Knowing God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Can We Know God?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Law in the Heart.

1. Restoration of Israel (vv. 1-14).

1. Time of (vv. 1-5). This points to the glorious future. Not only the children of Judah, but the other tribes as well, shall be restored to their land. They shall be drawn by Jehovah's everlasting love (v. 3). God gave them the land. The peculiar distinctions of the chosen nation shall again be manifest. The time is coming when not only shall peace spread over that land, but it shall again be tilled, and fruitful.

2. The Lord will conduct them to their own land (vv. 6-9).

(1) The cry of the watchman (v. 6). This will be the signal for return.

(2) Exultant prospect (v. 7). The prospect of deliverance will call forth a song of joy.

(3) Prayer of the Jews (v. 7). God indites all true prayer, moving the people to pray for that which He is about to do unto them.

(4) The returning remnant (vv. 8, 9). They shall come from all parts of the world whence they have been scattered. When they shall look upon Him whom they pierced, their consciences shall be smitten, causing them to repent of their sins.

3. Appeal to the nations (vv. 10-14).

(1) Sound forth the good news (v. 10). The one who scattered them will now gather them in and shepherd them.

(2) Ransomed by the Lord (v. 11). Their deliverance is preceded by the provision of the ransom.

(3) The exiles shall flock back to their land to enjoy God's goodness in it (v. 12).

(4) Their mourning shall turn to joy (v. 13).

(5) They shall be satisfied with God's goodness (v. 14).

II. The Desolate Condition of Ephraim (vv. 15-20).

1. Rachel weeping for her children (v. 15). This pictures Rachel, ancestress of certain of the tribes, weeping for her banished children.

2. Ephraim will surely return (vv. 16-19).

The nation is seen showing penitence for sin, requesting divine help in turning back and in confessing sin.

3. Their tender reception (v. 20). In spite of chastisement, God loves Israel and will with open arms receive her back.

III. Action Urged (vv. 21-26).

Something is required of Israel. Before the prodigal could enjoy the blessings of his father's house, he must return thereto.

1. Israel must return and take possession of the land (v. 21).

2. Israel was to take the initiative (v. 22).

This is expressed by the declaration that the Lord hath created a new thing in the earth, namely, "a woman shall compass a man." It is usual for the man to take the initiative—to make overtures to the woman, but in this case God shall create a new thing. The custom will be reversed. The woman "compassing" the man pictures Israel with eager affection approaching her divine husband.

3. The land shall be made righteous (v. 23).

The people are responsible for the restoration of prosperity and the righteous rule of the land.

4. A satisfied people (vv. 24-26).

IV. The New Covenant (vv. 29-40).

1. Freedom from the power of heredity (vv. 29, 30).

Those who are joined to Jesus Christ are in possession of a new law of life superior to the law of heredity.

2. The law within (vv. 31-33).

Through regeneration the heart has within it not only the desire but also the power, by the Holy Spirit, to rise above and to be free from carnal impulses.

V. The Source of the New Covenant (John 1:17).

Through the incarnation the Son of God identified Himself with the race by the incorporation of Himself with it. Those in Christ are new creatures.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Insist upon K-R-O (Kills Rats Only) the original Squill exterminator. All druggists 75c, or direct if not yet stocked. Large size (four times as much) $2.00. K-R-O Co., Springfield, O.

Serum Proves Worth

Investigators of the Antivenin Institute of America report that the snake bite serum has proved effective by reducing the death rate from snake bites 73 per cent during 1928. They say that 570 persons were bitten by poisonous snakes during the year, and of the 401 receiving the serum only 11 died, while 16 of the 169 victims not receiving the serum died.—Pathfinder Magazine.

MOKENA

Mrs. Wm. Semmler is at the Silver Cross hospital, Joliet where she will undergo an operation Saturday morning of this week for the removal of an inward goitre.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Krapp was baptised on Mother's Day, May 12th, 1929 by his grandfather Rev. Wm. Kreis, at Dolton, Illinois. His grandfather Mr. E. P. Krapp and Miss Waunita Oswald were the sponsors.

Miss Elsie Kreis from St. Louis is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Krapp.

The 3rd Convention of the Evangelical Women's Federation of Monoc Circuit was held at Monee last Tuesday and many ladies from St. John's church attended.

Mr. Emil Krapp is in Wisconsin buying cattle.

The Mokena School base ball team defeated the Manhattan High school team Friday May 17 by a score of 7 to 1.

Mokena scored two runs in the first inning, two in each of the 3rd and 4th and one in the sixth. Manhattan only run came in the fifth with two down and a man on third. An easy grounder was muffed by McGovney but recovered and played to first where Walsh dropped it, but picked it up again and it looked like the man was out. The umpire however called him safe and a run scored, which was the only one that Manhattan got. From the first to the last inning it looked like Mokena's game and it was the only thing to mar a perfect day was the number of errors on the part of Mokena. For the first time this season the team played loose ball. The errors came singly, however, and were not costly. Only one caused a run, Manhattan only marker in the fifth inning.

Manhattan is giving Mokena a return game at Schiek's diamond Saturday afternoon, May 25th. The game will be called at two o'clock. No admission will be charged but the hat will be passed for a collection to help defray expenses. There will be no reason why there is not a big turn out. This is Mokena's last game of the season, and with a record of five straight victories this spring and 14 games won out of 15 played in the last two years, Mokena should turn out "en masse" for this, the last game.

Howard Beagley and family will move to Orland June 1.

Mrs. Klinke and children of Aurora has been visiting at the Don Hall home the past week.

Mrs. Simon Hohenstein is quite ill at her home.

TALENT FROM ORLEANS

Here are two of the most talented youngsters from the Crescent City, otherwise New Orleans. The youngsters are winning national recognition as classic interpreters of Terpsichore, as well as for their unusual ability as acrobatic dancers. Cherry blossom is the lady holding the feathers, while June Preiser is the other half of the team. Those who have seen these two youngsters in action predict for them a very bright future, provided of course they plan to make the stage their career. They have the talent and ability and the personality that spells success. It would be a pity if two such talented people did not continue to make use of their wonderful ability by following the trend of the stage. (Herbert Photos, N. Y.)
